

Murder mystery The Flower Collectors launches today for PC

The new game from the developers of the acclaimed The Lion's Song

21st April - Vienna, Austria: Developer Mipumi Games is launching The Flower Collectors, a detective mystery set in the political powder-keg of Barcelona in 1977, today (21st April) for PC for $19.99/£19.99/€19.99. The Flower Collectors will be Mipumi's second major release following its acclaimed debut, 2016's The Lion's Song.

Watch the new launch trailer for The Flower Collectors here.

In The Flower Collectors, players will take on the role of Jorge, a retired policeman who uses a wheelchair, who is struggling with a difficult past. Alone on his balcony, Jorge watches the world pass by through his binoculars. One stormy night, Jorge witnesses a murder. Determined to discover the truth but confined to his apartment, he must form an unlikely alliance with the young and ambitious journalist Melinda who becomes his eyes and ears on the ground.

From the vantage point of Jorge's balcony, with camera and transmitter in hand, Jorge attempts to solve a complex mystery by peeking beyond the curtain of unsuspecting neighbours.

Inspired by classic crime noir films and games like Firewatch, The Flower Collectors is a detective story with a whole lot of heart.

- Solve a captivating murder mystery with an unusual storyline
- Meet a host of colourful anthropomorphic characters in a lush, atmospheric world

- Investigate using your binoculars, camera and transmitter to uncover neighbourhood secrets from your balcony
- Create a crime chronology to figure out whodunnit
- Interrogate priests, beggars, club singers and nosy old ladies alike
- Dive into the unique setting of post-Franco Barcelona in the '70s
- Emphasizes characters, world building and narrative over skill challenges

Assets can be found in the press kit here.

About Mi'pu'mi Games

Mipumi Games, founded 11 years ago, is a Vienna-based independent game development company run by veteran developers with 20+ years each industry experience. The small specialist team collaborates with established AAA productions such as Hitman, Anno, The Settlers and Control. With this international experience the studio released its own acclaimed original IP The Lion's Song, an episodic adventure game set in early 20th century Austria. To find out more about Mipumi go to www.mipumi.com.